JYU

BUSINESS SCHOOL

International Business Administration.

Taught entirely in English, the new Bachelor's degree program International Business Administration offered by the JKU Business School prepares you to pursue a career at an international company either in Austria or abroad. The program not only provides you with an insightful overview of a company's business activities, but also helps you hone your managerial skills so you can work effectively as part of an intercultural team.

You will learn just how important core areas of business administration are, ranging from finance, accounting, and tax management to management and marketing, digitalization, and supply chain management.

In addition, students take classes in economics, mathematics/statistics, research methods, social skills, international law, are required to learn a second language (entry level B1).

YOUR BENEFITS

The program is taught entirely in English.

Studying abroad for a semester (or a year) is mandatory part of the program.

The JKU campus facilitates international and interdisciplinary exchange. You meet fellow students and professors from a wide range of countries.

Educational Objectives and Career Prospects.

What You Will Learn

You acquire skills inherent to internationally active experts in business, such as being a creative problem-solver in regard to intercultural issues. Among other things, you will learn about:

- The criteria used for finance and investment decisions at international companies.
- How a company maximizes the use of human resources and equipment in an international context.
- Estimating digitalization factors and using operational information systems.
- Foundations to conduct academic work, mathematics, statistics, an introduction to research methods and how to conduct academic work, gender and diversity.
- A second language is mandatory. Current options include German, Italian, French or Spanish. The entry level is B1.
- Social skills, including presentation skills and working effectively as part of a multicultural team.

Career Prospects

Graduates of the International Business Administration program at the JKU are qualified to pursue a career at, for example, large international and multinational companies as well as at organizations (NPOs, NGOs). Your educational background trains you as a specialist, able to fulfill different functional tasks at a company such as:

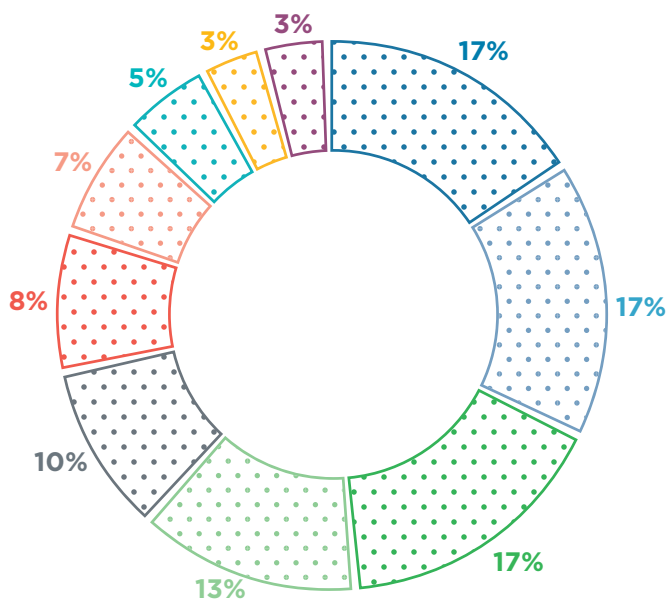

- International Marketing
- International Brand Management/Product Management
- Sales and Export Management
- International Human Resource Management
- Finance and Accounting at International Companies
- International Supply Chain Management
